Reprints of articles from various journals. This book contains tutorial and review articles as well as specific research letters that cover a wide range of topics: (1) dynamics of atmospheric variability from both basic theory and data analysis, (2) physical and mathematical problems in climate modeling and numerical weather prediction, (3) theories of atmospheric radiative transfer and their applications in satellite remote sensing, and (4) mathematical and statistical methods. The book can be used by undergraduates or graduate students majoring in atmospheric sciences, as an introduction to various research areas; and by researchers and educators, as a general review or quick reference in their fields of interest. Contents: Dynamics of Atmospheric Variability Climate Modeling and Numerical Weather Prediction Radiative Transfer and Remote Sensing Mathematical Method Readership: Graduate students, academics and researchers in meteorology/climatology, as well as East Asian weather-forecasting services. Keywords: Atmospheric Variability; Climate Modeling; Numerical Weather Prediction; Atmospheric Radiation; Satellite Remote Sensing These collected papers comprise the 109 research papers published by T.W. Anderson from 1943 to 1985. They cover a wide area of probability, statistics, econometrics, and matrix theory, including multivariate statistics and time series analysis. "Report of the Dominion fishery commission on the fisheries of the province of Ontario, 1893", issued as vol. 26, no. 7, supplement. In a research project, the most critical part is writing the report in a way which presents not just our findings, but the process through which we arrived at these findings. It demands honesty about our research design and our perspectives, so that others can understand not just the research we have produced, but something about the way in which we have produced it. When carrying out research it is all too easy to become embroiled in our own research questions and objectives, so that when it comes to presenting our research we forget about situating it within the wider body of knowledge. For the lack of proper knowledge, many people find it difficult to writing up their paper. This book is intended to help you organize and write a quality research paper for Social Sciences. This book also gives you the idea about research design.
